G.O.(MS)NO.1080/58.

Dated 24-9-1958.

ORDER

At present, all Officers deputed for training in India or abroad are required to execute a bond with sureties binding themselves to serve Government for a prescribed minimum number of years after return from training, irrespective of the nature of such training or its duration.

2. The question whether it is necessary in all cases of training within India to insist upon the execution of bonds by the candidates with sureties was considered by Government with special reference to the period of training. After examining all the aspects of the question, the Government are pleased to order that no bonds need be executed by the candidates in the following cases:-
  - (a) in the case of officers who are ordered by Government to under take a course of training within India without their applying for it, and
  - (b) In the case of those who are selected for training within India and whose period of training/course is six months and below.

In all other cases of Officers sent for training within India or abroad, including those who are sent for training as a preliminary to their appointment in Government services, irrespective of the period of training, the candidates should be required to execute a bond with sureties.
